“Miss Panda”

Lesson. Hello!

Let's say "Hello!" in Chinese! "Nǐ Hǎo!" "Nǐ" means "you". "Hǎo" means "good". This is the most commonly used Chinese greeting you will hear in everyday conversation. When we add the question word "ma" at the end of a sentence it shows that it is a question. How are you? – Ni hao ma? 你好嗎?

Traditional Characters	Simplified Characters	Pinyin	English
你好	你好	nǐ hǎo	Hello
你好嗎	你好吗	nǐ hǎo ma	How are you?
你	你	nǐ	You
好	好	hǎo	Good
奶奶	奶奶	nǎi nai	Grandma (dad's side)
爺爺	爷爷	yé ye	Grandpa (dad's side)
非常好	非常好	fēi cháng hǎo	Very/ excellent
阿姨	阿姨	ā yí	Aunt
叔叔	叔叔	shú shu	Uncle
很好	很好	Hěn hǎo	Very good
謝謝	谢谢	xiè xiè	Thanks/ thank you

Hello Song

Hello! Hello! How are you?
 Nǐ hǎo nǐ hǎo nǐ hǎo ma
 你好 你好 你好嗎
 你好 你好 你好嗎

Very well. Very well. Thank you!
 Hěn hǎo hěn hǎo xiè xiè nǐ
 很好 很好 謝謝你
 很好 很好 謝謝你

(repeat 3 times)

Word Wall Cards

There are two sets of cards:

1. Traditional Chinese-Pinyin-English set
2. Simplified Chinese set

Are these traditional Chinese characters or simplified Chinese characters?

The Blue frame indicates that all the Chinese Characters on that card are in traditional Chinese characters.

The Green frame indicates that one or more Chinese characters on that card are in simplified Chinese characters.

Play an “I spy the difference” game:

Compare a few cards in traditional and simplified sets and spot the differences!

Post the cards on the wall and use them as a visual tool when you listen to the audio program with your child(ren) or students.

Blue frame indicates all Chinese characters on this card are in traditional form.
